

Call for applications for the Learning Support Mentoring Program for the fall semester of the academic year 2026/2027

One of the missions of the Faculty of Pharmacy of the University of Pécs (UP) is to help its students progress in their studies and thus reduce student drop-out. To this end, a Learning Support Mentoring Program for Pharmacy (English/Hungarian) and Biotechnology students has been established. The aim is to create student study groups led by senior pharmacy or biotechnology students (mentors), where students can discuss the more challenging details of a given subject with the help of each other and the support of the mentor.

We are looking for upper-year students to take on the role of mentor, whose task is to prepare the mentored students for the exam in their selected subject so that they pass as many exams as possible at the end of the semester. The mentor will receive a stipend for the mentoring.

To apply, please send the completed application form electronically to mentor@gytk.pte.hu. The name of the submitted document must be without accent marks:

1. Mentor program: The Faculty of Pharmacy of the UP also offers a Learning Support Mentoring Program for pharmacy and biotechnology students.
2. Subject mentored: When applying for the mentor program, you must indicate the subject(s) in which you can offer mentoring. The subject(s) will be selected by the program coordinator based on the number of students and the required assistance for each subject in the semester.

4. Selection of mentors: An important factor in the award of a mentoring grant is the subjects in which mentoring is required in the given semester, i.e. the subjects in which students have taken an examination course. Applications will be evaluated based on the candidate's academic record, teaching experience, and ability to demonstrate the following skills: communication, problem-solving, debating, motivation, and higher scores in the oral interview. A 3-member committee (2 program coordinators and one member delegated by the Student Council) will evaluate the applications based on a scoring system. You may submit any missing documents only once, with a deadline determined by the Evaluation Committee.

The student may appeal against the Committee's decision within 15 days from the date of notification or from the date of becoming aware of the decision. The appeal must be addressed to the Second Level Study Committee and submitted to the body/individual who made the first level decision. It must be accompanied by the decision appealed against and the documents supporting the claim.

The Faculty would like to draw the attention of the successful applicants to the fact that following the mentored students' examinations, the Faculty will announce a Mentoring Excellence Scholarship competition for mentor students, under which mentor students who have performed a high-quality and successful mentoring activity will receive an additional scholarship, based on mentored student number, their feedback, the number of completed lessons, their summary reports, and the number of the mentored students who have successfully passed the examination. The maximum scholarship amount is HUF 140 000, depending on the effectiveness of the mentoring activity.
